BOSTIK LEADER ELECTED TO ASC BOARD; COUNCIL CONTINUES TO GROW MEMBERSHIP

Bethesda, MD – June 15, 2011 – The Adhesive and Sealant Council announces that Gary Delzell, Bostik, Inc’s Director of Supply Management, was unanimously elected to join the Council’s Board of Directors.

Delzell was elected to the Board in a special election to fill the term of Bill Campbell, President of Bostik who will be assuming a new position within the TOTAL group effective July 1. The vote occurred at the Summer Board Meeting held on June 5, 2011 in Orlando, FL.

Delzell has spent 35 years at Bostik, Inc. in a variety of positions including oversight of global manufacturing, quality control, regulatory and supply management. Delzell served on the Council Board from 2002 to 2008, where he participated in programs such as the Grow the Industry Campaign and launch of www.adhesives.org.

“Gary Delzell is a proven leader within the industry and on behalf of the Board, we welcome him back to the Council leadership as we continue to discuss new and different ways to support the supply chain,” notes Matthew E. Croson, President of ASC. “Having served on the Board previously, Gary brings a unique perspective that allows the Council to understand its past, while exploring new ways of adding value. We wish Bill well as he re-joins the TOTAL group and look forward to working with Gary on adding value to the Council.”

The Council also announces that two new members joined the Council in the second quarter. With the addition of Dexco, Inc. and Gorilla Glue, Inc, the number of Council members now stands at 117. For the first six months of 2011, 12 companies have joined the Council, a 10% growth in membership from 2010.

“The Council delivers focused programs that support business development and government regulatory efforts,” adds Croson. “Companies looking for support in these areas are joining the Council because they know that working together on common challenges facing the industry is a strong part of any company’s strategy for long term success. We welcome our new members and look forward to engaging their teams as we collaborate with the supply chain.”
