

PRESS RELEASE

April 10th, 2008

We are proud to announce that CANFAB PACKAGING INC., North America's largest Specialty composite can manufacturer, with 2 plants, (established in 1936), and ECONOPAC LTD., a caulking cartridge manufacturer, (established in 1932), owned by Abzac Canada Inc., (a global tube, core, and angle board manufacturer, with plants in 6 countries on 2 continents) have agreed in principle, to merge their operations. Effective immediately, the two companies will begin the process of integrating all aspects of their activities, including sales and purchasing.

This agreement will create the second largest and most diverse General composite container company in North America. It will provide many potential customers a credible, sought after, alternate source of supply. With our current base of operations, consisting of 3 plants and 8 automated lines, we can amply meet existing needs and are well prepared for future requirements.

Our combined operations will be capable of producing nearly every possible composite container type, offering greater choice, flexibility and new and improved technologies, including Econopac's automated caulking (adhesive and sealants) cartridge lines.

We are confident that you will appreciate the benefits of this merger.
